Summer Internship Available

Ralco Nutrition, Inc., a trusted source of innovation and technology worldwide, is seeking a dynamic college student majoring in agriculture (preferably animal science) for a summer internship position. Our team of swine nutritionists has designed the summer program for gaining valuable, hands-on experience in all aspects of the animal nutrition business focusing on swine nutrition and research. This internship has a scientific research component, which includes management of trials and potential for presentation and publication of data at professional meetings and scientific journals. The internship will be located at Ralco Nutrition in Marshall, MN.

Application Deadline: February 15, 2010
